SPORTING NOTES
The Giants would please the New York Sun by getting "a good pitcher." Connie Mack has signed a marine named Granger. This fellow is a pitcher. George Willis thinks he is still good as a pitcher and is trying to land with the Yankees.

Jersey City will have for its manager a well-known minor league manager. For Yeager is keeping the job warm for that fellow.

Pitcher Tom Seaton of the Brooklyn Feds has been suspended for five days. Manager Magee claims Seaton has not been taking the proper care of himself.

Jimmy Mullen, Scranton's veteran second baseman, felled so badly the other day a fight with Manager Bill McGraw that he is out of a job. McGraw is charged with manufacturing the story that the Cubs are to trade Catcher Archer and Outfielder Schulte. The Cubs are sore. They claim McGraw is trying to disrupt the Chicago club by booming such stories.

Joe Birmingham, for over two years manager of the Cleveland club and recently deposed, has been unconditionally released by President C. W. Somers. Not only has Birmingham been released but he has been barred from practicing baseball with the team he managed until a month ago. President Somers has informed Joe he would no longer be permitted the privileges of the club-house and grounds. Incidentally, Birmingham was notified by telegram that all the other American league clubs had granted waivers on him.

Says President Gilmore of the Feds: "If a city hasn't the gumption to show it appreciates our baseball it will have only itself to blame if it loses its franchise. We are prepared to strengthen our credit regardless of individual politics. There has been altogether too much soldiering and trifling on the part of certain high-priced men. I continue to wish to go on record that I will not tolerate booze fighting and carelessness such as has disgraced the records of some of our best players. I intend to throw out of the Federal League the bums and the ingrates. I do not care which pointed out that the act is strictly a revenue measure and will become operative as soon as the taxes imposed can be properly collected.

Stamp Act Suspended.
President Porras has issued a decree suspending the operation indefinitely of the Stamp Act, passed by the recent session of the National Assembly, which was intended to aid materially in rehabilitating the finances of Panama. The president's action is the result of the representations made to him by the recently organized association of Commerce of Panama. Some pointed out that the act, as passed, did not provide adequate or equitable machinery for the collection of the tax imposed.

The act was to have gone into operation on June 1 and imposed internal taxes on all legal and banking documents, wines, liquors and other spirits and tobacco, cigarettes and cigars. It is strictly a revenue measure and will become operative as soon as the taxes imposed can be properly collected.

One Thing More.
The act was to have gone into operation on June 1 and imposed internal taxes on all legal and banking documents, wines, liquors and other spirits and tobacco, cigarettes and cigars. It is strictly a revenue measure and will become operative as soon as the taxes imposed can be properly collected.
